Dancing, Boating, Partying Highlight Dorm Weekend

Spring smiled on the triple-header of events this weekend known as Dormitory Weekend.

Thanks to the clear air, the lights of Boston provided a beautiful backdrop for approximately 125 couples who opened the weekend with dancing to the music of Herby Wayne in the glass enclosed Parker House Roof Ballroom, 15 stories above Boston. The Krokodilors, a singing group from Harvard, added to the entertainment of the Semi-formal.

Clear weather remained for the cruise on the luxury yacht "Kingfisher", the second feature of the weekend. The 100-ton vessel sailed from Indian Wharf to the Boston Lightship, 14 miles out in the Atlantic. The seventy couples aboard danced under the stars to the music of George Graham.

Beach Party Informal

At the same time in Baker House, the "Baker House Beach Party" was in progress. Bobby Adams' band provided the music for the crowd of 150, dressed in Bermuda shorts, pedal pushers, blue jeans and other such informal attire. The Baker House Dining Room was decorated with such nautical items as a ship's wheel, fish netting, nautical scenes painted on the tables, and wading pools which contained live lobsters to really give the "feel" of a beach party. In addition was a bar, which did not serve mere water. The Logarithms added their bit to the festivities.

When the beach party broke up at 12:30, most of the celebrants adjourned to the Baker House Lobby where, over the brisk fire in the fireplace, a barbecue, with hot dogs, potato chips and beer, courtesy of the Dorm Weekend, took place. Many of the couples from the cruise joined the festivities to swell the group around the fire to 200.

The end of this indoor barbecue, and with it the end of Dormitory Weekend, came about 2:30 Sunday, with the weather still beautiful.

Baker Memorial Comm. Named

Institute Committee elected five men to serve on the re-established Baker Memorial Committee at their Thursday meeting. They are Bob Rothstein '60, Steve Shimberg '60, Dick McDowell '60, Mike Rosner '60, and Grady Harris '61.

These five will continue the work of the Memorial Committee, founded in 1947 after the death of Dean Baker. Several years ago, the committee died out and was not re-established until this year. Several changes in the by-laws have been approved to ensure that the committee will be more effective.

Two of the proposals before the newly re-formed foundation are requests for funds from the World University Service and from Baker House which has asked for a grant to purchase books for their library.

Debaters Awarded Dual Prize; Becker, Hillman Take Honors

MIT's Debating Society reviewed the year and presented awards to outstanding debaters at its annual banquet held at the Maitre Jacques on Saturday. Bill Krasnow, ex-debate coach at MIT and now a practicing lawyer in Laconia, N.H., was guest of honor for the evening.

In an unprecedented action, dual Stratton prizes were awarded to the two equally outstanding debaters this year. Arthur Olsen, varsity coach, presented the award to Bob Hillman '59 and Dick Becker '59. The two won 39 out of 52 debates this year on the topic: "Resolved: that the further development of nuclear weapons should be prohibited by international agreement." Hillman and Becker highlighted their final year by taking second place at Harvard in February.

IFC Whoops it upon Wild West Weekend; Alpha Tau Omega Takes Saturday Events

Alpha Tau Omega chugged along to a victory at the Briggs Field "IFC Country Fairgrounds" Saturday, with a model of an Old West locomotive as their float. The ATO's took the quarterhorse (bicycle) race as well as the float contest to win the IFC total point trophy.

Queen Elected at Formal Dance

On Friday night, the Greeks assembled for the annual formal at the Statler-Hilton where Glenn Miller and his orchestra supplied the music.

Judy Margolin of Simmons, escorted by Morris Kriger, Pi Lambda Phi, was elected Queen of IFC week-end by President Stratton and Deans Rule, Holden and Fassett. Her court consisted of Barbara Washburn, escorted by Bob Lienhard, Lambda Chi Alpha; Alice Voss, escorted by Clarke Swannack, Theta Chi; and Sue Hattox, escorted by Grady Harris, Sigma Nu.

The Dance Committee was composed of Gordon Baty, Roger Ball and Dick Giglio.

Country Fair

At "High Noon" on Saturday, under the supervision of the Fairgrounds Committee and an unidentified sheriff on a motor scooter, the floats assembled on Beacon Street for a parade to the Fairgrounds. Dean Rule and Professor Wood of the Humanities Department (Foundations of Western Civilization), the judges of the parade, awarded the trophy for the winning float to ATO. Phi Mu Delta was awarded second place for their float, another train; Sigma Alpha Epsilon came in third in the contest. Pi Lambda Phi took fourth place with a model "shootin' iron".

The quarterhorse race, two laps around Briggs Field, was won by ATO. Delta Upsilon won the wheelbarrow race. Phi Mu Delta hobbled to a win in the three-legged race, and Sigma Nu bounced to a victory in the Sack Race. The annual chariot race was taken by Phi Kappa Sigma; Tau Epsilon Phi's chariot collapsed three feet from the finish line.

The events of the afternoon were coordinated by Fillmore McPherson, Ted Jarmain, Bob Dulsky, Frank Nourie, and Joe Goodell.

Total points for the afternoon were awarded as follows: ATO-45, PKS-35, SN-30 and PMD-25.

Party, Party

Later in the afternoon, cocktails were served at Chi Phi, Phi Kappa Theta and Dover Club. In the evening, Wild West parties took place at the Deke House and at Theta Delta Chi. Delta Upsilon, Theta Chi, Phi Kappa Sigma and Sigma Chi joined forces to sponsor the "Cool Corral" to finish the week-end in grand style.

Cum Worries For Instructors?

Inscomm went into a long discussion after a motion was presented by IFC Chairman Joe Verderber '60 calling for a SCEP investigation of the merits and feasibility of a teacher and course evaluation program. The motion was passed, and it is now up to SCEP to decide whether or not to accept the project outlined by the Institute Committee.

Under the program, students would write down their opinions of both the subject matter of the course and the teaching methods and skill of the instructor. Speaking to the motion, SCEP Chairman Farley Fisher '60 pointed out that a good deal of paperwork would be involved which could keep SCEP from the projects it is now working on.

Fisher mentioned that SCEP had been told by a member of the faculty that some faculty members were cognizant of the fact that many upperclassmen choose their courses for the instructor rather than the subject.

THE TECH on ADB Discussion Agenda

The Activities Development Board met over dinner last night with a full-length discussion of The Tech on the agenda. The Board, headed by Professor Robert Mann, sat with members of The Tech's Board of Directors to consider methods the paper could use to improve itself.

The agenda, proposed by Professor Mann after a meeting last week, concerned discussion of the possibilities of free distribution of the paper, a subsidy, cutting down the differential between deadline and delivery, increasing size of staff, running new and improved feature articles, and the weekly printing of the schedule of events and announcements.

From The Tech, a report was presented giving information on operating procedures of other college newspapers.

Beacon Street Battle; Spirits Undampened

Annual waterbomb fights were started again Thursday night on Beacon Street with the fraternities on the defensive.

Five ten-year-old Boston urchins attacked the Sig Ep house with waterbombs. They could not keep the Sig Eps from dinner, so they turned to the Theta Chi's and DU's. Here they met with more resistance, watching crowds on Beacon Street increased, and interest shifted to throwing waterbombs at passing convertibles and Boston University girls.

The entire proceedings were observed by two members of the Boston Police Department, who made no move to stop proceedings nor to phone for reinforcements.

Housemaster Comment

To the Editor:

Recently, Dr. Julius A. Stratton, President of MIT, announced to an informal assembly of the Senior House Committee the installation of the Housemaster Program in Senior House. This announcement was met by the general and hearty approval of the members. At the same time Dr. Stratton announced that Dr. John Goodenough, our present Faculty Resident, will be our first Housemaster. There are a number of present relations which will be altered by this action.

The housemaster will be the representative of the Dean's office to the House, while the faculty resident had no authority. The housemaster will have jurisdiction over a number of disciplinary areas in the House, which were formerly handled by the Dean's office. The advantage of this is that the housemaster, since he will be able to get to know all of the boys in the House, will be able to handle all disciplinary measures in this additional light.

Also, the housemaster will be able to authorize minor projects within the House. For this purpose, a sum of money from the Institute will be at his disposal.

Since the housemaster is the representative of the Dean's office, he will be in the position of a liaison between them and the students. The housemaster will have his authority assigned to him by the Dean's office. He will not have more authority than the Dean's office has now. (Although that is pretty extensive.) It is expected all the same that the housemaster will become the friend and advocate of the boys.

In addition to the housemaster, there will be assigned to the House a senior tutor and four other tutors (tutors in name only we hope), one to live in each entry. The housemaster will occupy the present quarters of the faculty resident on the second floor of Crafts. We expect that the installation of this system will bring to the House the advantage of closer and more intimate student-faculty relations.

We in Senior House were happy and well pleased that John Goodenough was appointed as our housemaster. He has been the faculty resident in Senior House for the past five years. It was he who motivated the idea of an independent Senior House and saw it through to its realization. He has been our friend and protagonist in these and other matters for the past five years. We are very grateful for his actions in our behalf in the past, and we know that he will continue these policies in his new office.

The students received the news of Dr. Goodenough's appointment with general gladness and feelings of surety that we definitely had the right man for the position. Although the "long arm of the law" will be among us now, we feel that this new limitation will serve only to enhance our privileges. Now that Dr. Goodenough is the housemaster, he will have an important part in student government and student affairs, which he did not have as faculty resident. We expect to maintain his confidence as our trusted advisor.

I have spoken with a number of students from Burton House and their housemaster, Prof. Bartlett, and have the impression that nothing but the best of relations has existed between them. The handling of problems is facilitated ever so much by the feelings of personal contact and friendship between the housemaster and the students. Also, the presence and activity of the housemaster has augmented the spirit of Burton House considerably. We know that these advantages will be accrued to us also with the passage of time.

The housemaster system is a system which is employed in the residence halls of mostly all of the great colleges and universities of the world. This system is of enormous value in promoting good student-faculty relations at those schools. We feel that at MIT, which is rapidly becoming a residential school, this system will be invaluable.

We at Senior House know that the housemaster system will bring us advantages and benefits above and beyond those which were formerly ours.

the chapel

Earlier this year we printed a comment in answer to an editorial in the BOSTON UNIVERSITY NEWS which asserted that the architecture of the MIT chapel was an excellent example of the lack of aesthetic taste of the scientist and engineer. In a later issue of that paper, the chapel was again blasted; this time on religious grounds. Printed below is a letter sent to the editor of the BU newspaper by an MIT student which answers their newest barb.

Gentlemen:

In an editorial about the MIT Chapel on March 20th, the NEWS stated that, "A chapel is not the place to break with tradition. . . . Religion and tradition are completely, totally, and wholly intertwined in each other."

The sense of this editorial shows that its author has misunderstood the meaning and importance of tradition, especially as applied to religion — specifically, the Judeo-Christian religions. These are historical, in the sense that they are concerned with events in particular times and places in history. They may be interpreted at their time in the context of this particularity. However, in other times and places these events must be interpreted to the contemporary setting on its own terms. If this is not done, the events become meaningless in themselves, appearing only as beliefs of the long-dead past.

The crying need today is for a relevant faith during an age of rapid change and broken relationships, an age that is holding a thumb in the crumbling dike against dialectical materialism. This cannot be done by hanging onto dogmas of the past that are no longer meaningful to people.

These religions have tradition, granted, but they are linked to it in the sense given above. In order to reinterpret for our time, we must find out what the faiths meant in their original contexts and in those of the generations since. Then we are not in as much danger of losing their total meaning by piling superfluous modernistic dogmas on top of past dogmas. This, therefore is the true definition of tradition: looking to the present and to the future by using (not repeating) the contexts of the past. In this manner, the past becomes rich in meaning to the future.

This is what the chapel is attempting to do architecturally: by the use of contemporary art to embody the meaning of the past and its traditions of faith, and to carry this to the present in a relevant context. The MIT Chapel's use of religious symbolism creates "an atmosphere conducive to worship and contemplation." Its shape, lack of windows, moat, and translucent passage to the sanctuary combine with other elements to make this edifice rich in the real sense of tradition — the contemporary tradition.

The Law is the Law

How would you like to be born on February 29th? Or on the border line between two countries? Or aboard an airplane? Or to go to a movie supposedly very funny and find it insipid most of the time?

The Exeter is presenting a mixture of two of the problems enunciated above. Is it about somebody born on February 29th? No. Somebody born on the border line between Italy and France? Yes. Fernandel, the hero of "The Law is the Law" was born in a kitchen, on the Italian side of a boardinghouse through which passes the border-line. He is a customs officer for the French Republic, because nobody found out his problem, yet. Toto, the other hero, is a smuggler. He smuggles wine from France to Italy. Fernandel is always after him. Of course. Some other complications: Fernandel was married to an Italian woman and had four children. Then divorced, in France. Toto took up the opportunity and married Fernandel's ex-wife, while the French hero married again, in France. Final trouble arises when Fernandel loses his nationality, being therefore a bigamist, an apatrid and a social revolutionary. This last attribute is given to him by Cristian-Jacque, the director of the movie, when the time comes to give the "message": the evil of red-tape, the ridiculousness of bureaucracy, etc., etc. As you can see, the story is rather funny as soon as you are able to understand it, which we weren't. Two or three scenes are good for a laugh but on the overall you wait for something to happen and nothing does.

Does anybody see the light for the first time on an airplane? No. This leaves us with only one more problem: do you go to the movie-house expecting a funny movie and find it insipid most of the time? Yes.

ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL SCIENCE: NO. 3

Today, ranging again into the fascinating world of social science, let us take up the subject of anthropology—the study of man and his origins.

The origin of man was indeed a puzzle until the Frenchman, Jean-Louis Sigafoos, discovered the skull and shinbone of Pithecanthropus Erectus in Java in 1891. What Sigafoos was doing in Java is, incidentally, quite an odd little story. Sigafoos was a Parisian born and bred. By day one could always find him at a sidewalk cafe, sipping barley water and ogling the girls; each night he went to a fashionable casino where he gambled heavily at roulette and go-fish; in between times he worked on his stamp collection, which was one of the largest in Paris.

Well sir, one summer Sigafoos lost his entire fortune gambling at the casino. He was seriously contemplating suicide when, quite unexpectedly, a letter arrived from one Lotus Petal McGinnis, a Javanese girl and an avid stamp collector, with whom Sigafoos had been corresponding from time to time through the international stamp collectors journal. Until now the nature of their correspondence, though friendly, had been strictly philatelic, but in this new letter Lotus Petal declared that although she had never laid eyes on Sigafoos, she loved him and wanted to marry him. She said she was eighteen years old, beautiful and docile, and her father, the richest man in the tribe, had agreed to give half his fortune to the husband of her choice. Sigafoos, penniless and desperate, immediately booked passage for Java.

The first sight of his prospective bride failed to delight Sigafoos. She was, as she said, beautiful—but only by local standards. Sigafoos had serious doubts that her pointed scarlet teeth and the chicken bones hanging from her ears would be considered chic along the Champs Elysées.

But sobering as was the sight of Lotus Petal, Sigafoos had an even greater disappointment coming when he met her father. The old gentleman was, as Lotus Petal claimed, the richest man in the tribe, but, unfortunately, the medium of exchange in his tribe was prune pits.

Sigafoos took one look at the mound of prune pits which was his dowry, gnashed his teeth, and stomped off into the jungle, swearing vilely and kicking at whatever lay in his path. Stomping thus, swearing thus, kicking thus, Sigafoos kicked over a heap of old bones which—what do you know!—turned out to be Pithecanthropus Erectus!

But I digress. From the brutish Pithecanthropus, man evolved slowly upward in intellect. By the Middle Paleolithic period man had invented the leash, which was a remarkable technical achievement, but frankly not particularly useful until the Mesolithic period when man invented the dog.

In the Neolithic period came the most important discovery in the history of man—the discovery of agriculture. Why is this so important? Because, good friends, without agriculture there would be no tobacco, and without tobacco there would be no Marlboro, and without Marlboro you would be without the finest filter cigarette that money can buy, and I would be without a job.

That's why.

© 1959 Max Shulman

Without tobacco you would also be without Marlboro's sister cigarette, Philip Morris, a non-filter smoke that can't be beat. Philip Morris or Marlboro—pick your pleasure.

ENTER OFTEN — HAVE FUN — AND WIN! But think carefully! This puzzle is not as easy as it looks. At first the DOWN and ACROSS clues may appear simple. There may appear to be more than one "right" answer. For example, the clue might read: "Many a coed will be given her best date's P-N." Either "P" (PIN) or "E" (PEN) would seem to fit. But only one answer is apt and logical as decided by the judging staff, and therefore correct. Read the rules carefully. ENTER AS OFTEN AS YOU WISH. Good luck!

RULES—PLEASE READ CAREFULLY

- The College Puzzle Contest is open to college students and college faculty members except employees and their immediate families of Liggett & Myers and its advertising agencies.
- Fill in all missing letters . . . print clearly. Use of obsolete, archaic, variant or foreign words prohibited. After you have completed the puzzle, send it along with six empty package wrappers of the same brand from L&M, Chesterfield or Oasis cigarettes (or one reasonable hand-drawn facsimile of a complete package wrapper of any one of the three brands) to: Liggett & Myers, P. O. Box 271, New York 46, N. Y. Enter as often as you wish, but be sure to enclose six package wrappers (or a facsimile) with each entry. Illegible entries will not be considered.
- Entries must be postmarked by midnight, Friday, May 29, 1959 and received by midnight, Friday, June 5, 1959.
- Entries will be judged by the Bruce-Richards Corporation, an independent judging organization, on the basis of logic and aptness of thought of solutions. In the event of ties, contestants will be required to complete in 25 words or less the following statement: "My favorite cigarette is (Chesterfield) (L&M) or (Oasis) because . . .". Entries will be judged on originality, aptness of thought and interest by the Bruce-Richards Corporation. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in event of final ties. Illegible entries will not be considered. By entering all entrants agree that the decision of the judges shall be final and binding.
- Solutions must be the original work of the contestants submitting them. All entries become the property of Liggett & Myers and none will be returned.
- Winners will be notified by mail as soon as possible after completion of the contest.
- This contest is subject to all Federal, State and local laws and regulations.

Two MIT Crews Post Victories; Wisconsin Edges Varsity Heavies

Tech's junior varsity heavyweight crew rowed to its first victory of the season Saturday on the Harlem River, defeating Columbia and Rutgers over a two-mile course. The New York waters also proved fruitful for the Beaver second frosh heavies as they bested the same two schools.

The Engineer JV boat pulled up on Columbia (which had a 1/2-length lead due to the staggered start) with 1 1/4 miles to go and was never headed after that. Raising the stroke to 32 in the final sprint they swept over the finish line in 10:40, three lengths ahead of the Lions and seven in front of Rutgers.

Although there was little current on the water at the time of the JV race, all three crews had to contend with a 20 mph headwind which created a plentiful supply of rough water.

In a third heavyweight race at Columbia, the Beaver first frosh finished third behind Columbia and Rutgers.

At Wisconsin the Engineer varsity heavies led until 200 feet from the finish line, and then bowed to the Badgers by six feet. The Techmen lifted the stroke to 38 in a futile effort to catch the leaders, who finished in 9:43.5.

Lights Lose

The Charles River was the scene of three lightweight races Saturday with MIT, Cornell and Columbia competing. The Big Red swept all three contests, with Tech second in the frosh tilt and third in the varsity and junior varsity skirmishes.

Two accidents marked the day's activities as Cornell suffered a broken oarlock in the frosh race and the Beaver JV shell lost its stabilizing fin on the stake boat anchor chain.

Man-about-Manhattan Barton Reeb has a real "head" on his shoulders. His favorite bartender told him recently his last name spelled backwards is "beer."

—From a Broadway column.

Chief Detective Gordon Whitewhistle, high man on the totem pole which "insiders" allude to as the Greater New York Alias Squad, regarded me pettishly out of the cornea of his eye. "So you're Reeb's favorite barman, eh?" he queried, shooting his cuffs with a small revolver. "You know how these columnists exaggerate," I said deprecatingly, and went on stashing Schaefer into the refrigerator behind the bar.

"Why all the Schaefer?" he interrogated. "Mr. Reeb always treats the house," I commented. "He says that's what you hear in the best of circles—Schaefer all around!" "Yes, and then he talks about its smooth round taste—never sharp, never flat," Whitewhistle ruminated presciently, absently fondling a kipper from the free lunch. "Right now lad, your life isn't worth a plugged nickel or, for that matter, a nickeled plug." He produced a photo from a bulging card case. "I give you Barton Reeb, alias Edwin d'Nour, alias Philippe Refeahcs."

"Edwin Round! Philippe Schaefer!" I deciphered proudly, my unique talent asserting itself. "The man is a famous jewel thief, enamored of Schaefer," the detective expounded waspishly. "And you have now stripped him of his latest nom de guerre."

A shadow fell across the door, righted itself, came forward; Whitewhistle dove into a pool of darkness behind a potted palm as Barton Reeb entered. Although bent on taking my life, Reeb straightened suddenly to study a Schaefer sign, and in that moment Whitewhistle made his arrest. "What's your name lad?" he chortled to me as he led Reeb away. "Bob Dood," I riposted with a snicker. Wait till the columnists get their teeth into that little sally.

MIT Nine Splits at Coast Guard Blanked by Harvard, Northeastern

In their busiest week of the season, the varsity baseball team played four games of which they won one. Last Monday, they traveled up the Charles to face Harvard, and the Crimson proceeded to gain revenge for last year's 2-0 defeat by blanking the Engineers 3-0. Dick Oeler '60 went all the way on the mound for the Beavers and gave up only four hits. Although his teammates picked up five singles they were unable to score.

Friday afternoon against Northeastern on Briggs Field, the Techmen out-hit their opponents seven to six but were shut out 2-0. Al Beard '59 pitched the whole game for MIT and his two-out triple in the second frame was one of the two scoring opportunities the Beavers had.

At New London Saturday afternoon, Scotty Whitelaw's nine split a doubleheader with Coast Guard, taking the first 7-1 behind Oeler, and dropping the afterpiece 4-3.

In the opener, the home squad was limited to just two hits. One of these was a third inning triple that was converted into the Coast Guard's lone run by an MIT error. However, in the top half of that inning the Engineers jumped on the opposing moundsman for five runs. Elliot Fineman '59 walked and Oeler was safe on a fielder's choice. Then passes to Dick Pack '60 and Jack Pogarian '59 brought in one run. Beaver catcher Warren Goodnow up next cleared the bases with a booming triple. He scored on another fielder's choice. MIT added two runs in the seventh.

Racquetmen Defeat Wesleyan USCGA

The varsity netmen won two and lost one in last week's competition. Their loss occurred at the hands of a strong Amherst squad this past Wednesday here at Tech, by a score of 4-5. The biggest upset of this match was the defeat of our number one singles man, Raul Karman '61 by Richardson of Amherst, finalist in last year's N.E. Intercollegiate Championships. Our four points were picked up on three singles and one doubles win. Captain Jeff Winicour '59, second man Jack Klapper '61 and fifth singles Bob Hodges '60 triumphed in the singles, and the Karman-Klapper duet won in the doubles, playing against the Jeffs' second and fourth men.

Friday at Wesleyan we won 6-3. Karman playing against the Cardinals' Allan Roberts, former National Doubles Champion, lost again for the second time last week in close sets, 8-6, 6-4. Klapper, Winicour, Hodges and Dave Aaker '60 each won in the singles events with Karman and Klapper, and Hodges and Aaker taking the doubles.

Our biggest sweep of the week was at New London last Saturday where we outclassed USCGA 9-0. The stronger Beaver squad walked away with almost all the matches, the only close one being Winicour's. He edged out his sailor opponent 6-4, 8-6.

Yesterday the sextet played Trinity here and tomorrow they go against a strong Dartmouth group rated third in New England.

Sailors Take Third In NE Dinghy Finals

On the windswept waters of the Thames River at New London, the finals of the New England Dinghy Championships saw the varsity sailors finish third behind Harvard and BU. Looking for a repeat of last spring's victory, the Techmen were tied for first with the Cantabs after eight of the nine races. In the finale, both MIT entries failed to keep the pace they had previously set, as Bill Widnall '59 suffered an equipment breakdown and placed fifth in his "A" division contest and Dennis Posey '59 fell behind in the "B" division race. Jake van Heeckeren '61 and Pete Gray '61 were their respective crews.

Harvard's Robins and BU's Hatch Brown tied for top honors in the "A" sailing with 73 points, as Widnall was third with 68. In the other division, the victors' Saltonstall was high point skipper with 70 as Posey finished third with 64.

Fresh Sailors Second

The Charles was the scene this week-end for the New England Freshman Dinghy Championships which went to BU with 124 points over runnerup MIT's 121. Thane Smith and Chuck Glueck were at the helms for the Beavers with crews Bill Bails and Brian Strong. Smith was high point skipper in his division.

Lacrossemen Top BLC, Crush Union Fitzgerald Honored

The strong varsity lacrosse team took two contests last week, defeating the Boston Lacrosse Club, Wednesday, 10-8, and Union, Saturday, 17-1.

In the Boston Lacrosse Club encounter, the Techmen got off to an early lead in the first half, scoring seven times to their foes' one. In the second half the BLC squad showed some power as they netted five straight tallies. Nevertheless, MIT stayed out in front all the way to win.

In that event attackman Chuck Conn '60 suffered a broken wrist which will keep him out of action for the rest of the season.

Saturday the Beavers drove the Union stickmen into the ground. Union opened the scoring with a tally early in the first period which was to be their only one of the day. The Beaver contingent went on to tally seventeen straight, the scoring was evenly distributed throughout the game. Outstanding for the Engineers were Charley Fitzgerald '59 and Jim Russell '59. Fitzgerald registered six goals plus two assists. This puts his total for the year over twenty, gaining him entry into the Annual Lacrosse Guide, a listing of top scorers

Trackmen Downed by Springfield; Koch Smashes Pole Vault Record

Traveling to Springfield last Saturday, the varsity trackmen were downed 104-31 by a powerful Springfield College squad in their last dual meet of the season. The frosh also succumbed 93½-41½. For the second week in a row Dave Koch '62 provided the bright spot of the day for the Cardinal and Gray as he pole vaulted 12' 5" to shatter his own record of 11' 11" set last week. The new mark, only four inches shy of the varsity record, also tops the existing indoor freshman record of 12' 3¼".

Joe Davis '61 and George Withbroe '61 were the only MIT varsity winners of the day. Davis copped the 120-yard high hurdles in addition to taking second in the lows and third in the high jump. Withbroe led all the way in 440-yard dash to hit the tape in 51.8. Brian White '61 was second high scorer for the Beavers with 6 points, placing second in both the mile and half-mile.

Neal Bacote paced the freshmen scorers with 13 tallies, scoring a throughout the nation. Russell contributed four with one assist.

In an effort to keep the game from turning into an even greater rout, MIT Coach Ben Martin interchanged defensemen, attackman, and goalie among different positions in the final period.

double win in the 100-yard dash and broad jump, while being edged out in the last few yards of the 220. Other winners were Val Sibley in the 220-yard low hurdles and Dave Kochuko set a record in the pole vault. Joe Crowley was second high scorer for the yearlings with seconds in both hurdles events.

The meet marked the close of this season's dual meet competition for the varsity. Next Saturday, May 16, a squad of about fifteen will compete in the Eastern Collegiate Championships at WPI. Other schools competing in the MIT's division will be Tufts, Northeastern, Boston College, Holy Cross, Providence, Wesleyan, and Amherst. The following Saturday about eight will compete in the New England at UConn.

Interclass Meet

The varsity will make their final home appearance tomorrow and Thursday afternoons in the annual spring interclass meet. Any student, graduate or undergraduate, whether or not he is a member of the track team, is eligible to compete. Medals will be given for the first three places. The Class of '61 is defending champ in the spring meet, but the frosh, who edged out the sophs by three points in the winter interclass meet, hope to repeat their success.

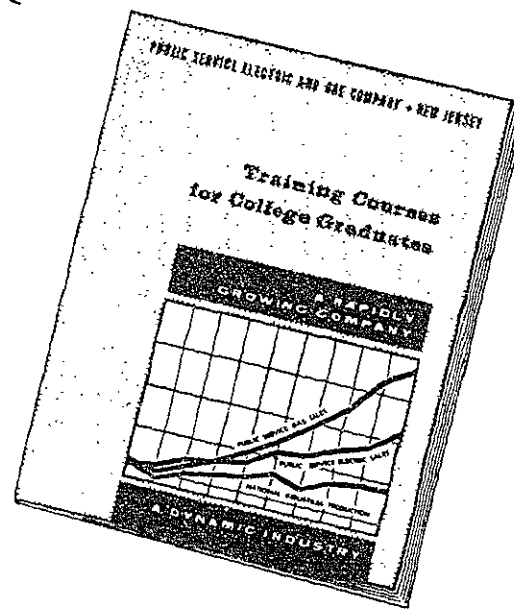

DREAMING OF VACATIONS ?

It's all right to dream of vacations, but it's wise for all juniors to start planning ahead to what you are going to do after graduation.

We suggest you consider working for Public Service Electric and Gas Company in New Jersey. With more than one billion dollars invested in plant, it is one of the leading utilities in the country. Public Service ranks fourth among the investor-owned operating utility companies providing both electric and gas service in the United States.

So start thinking now about next year . . . you would be wise to give Public Service serious consideration.

The World Of Youth As Reflected In Two International Conclaves

Lima, February 1959

The Eighth International Student Conference, Lima, Peru, February, 1959, like those held previously in Stockholm, Copenhagen, Edinburgh, Birmingham, Istanbul, Ceylon, and Nigeria, confronted problems facing students throughout the world, in particular that resolution presented by the host Peruvian delegation, reminding of motives inspiring the great University Reform, that totalitarianism, colonialism, and imperialism are negative forces hindering normal development of peoples, and that nations should offer culture to every human being.

Not an international "organization", it is only a periodical gathering at which students from all parts of the world meet to reach solutions to their common problems. Policies and programs approved by the ISC sessions implemented by a Coordinating Secretariat in Leiden, Netherlands in cooperation with the participating national student unions. American member of the Secretariat David Baad says in the NSA News that perhaps due to experience (the ISC was established in 1950) the ISC has consolidated itself as an extremely workable framework of international cooperation.

Altogether 200 students met in Lima representing 70 countries. Students of the United States were represented by the National Student Association. Yugoslavia was conspicuous as the only communist country participating.

Before the ISC's establishment in Stockholm eight years ago, the NSA had voted to affiliate with the Communist International Student Union under certain conditions. This was 1947. But one year later it was necessary to repudiate the affiliation in protest to the IUS acquiescence during violence in Czechoslovakia.

Vienna, July 1959

by Dave Nickles '62

This summer, July 26-August 4, the 7th World Youth Festival will take place in Vienna, Austria. According to the U.S. Festival Committee, which is directly connected with the Festival, it is "a way in which young people can contribute to international understanding and build peace."

Let us examine the facts first, before we accept this and other idealistic statements.

The approaching conclave in Vienna will be the latest in a series of youth rallies organized by two internationally known Communist front organizations, the World Federation of Democratic Youth and the International Union of Students.

Since 1947 these meetings have been held behind the "Iron Curtain" and have been dominated by Communist "delegations." They were held in Prague (1947), Budapest (1949), East Berlin (1951) Bucharest (1953) Warsaw (1955), and Moscow (1957).

The early festivals were consistent in their condemnation of American "Imperialist aggression" in Korea, while North Korean officers were honored as "heroes in the struggle for peace." Prominence was given to the economic hardships, racial tensions, and lynching "inevitable in capitalistic America".

Following the trend in Soviet policy after the death of Stalin, the Soviet domination of the bi-annual Festival became more subtle.

A look at the most recent Festival inaugurated by a rally of 100,000 in Moscow, 1957, should give an indication of what is to be expected in Vienna. Themes of anti-colonialism and anti-atom bomb testing dominated the major demonstrations, which were joined by thousands of Muscovites. These and other events were so organized as to gain the support of the delegations from the underdeveloped nations.

One can be quite sure that the Vienna Festival will be another in a line of Soviet sponsored propaganda efforts to court the neutrals at the West's expense. However, the Festival's International Preparatory Committee and its affiliate the U. S. Festival Committee state that the Festival will just be an opportunity for the youth of the world to meet and "through song and dance, athletic competition, discussion, and debate they will learn about and better come to understand each other." "We feel that the U.S. can and should compete with those other nations on artistic, cultural, and sports events at the Festival." The U.S. Festival Committee is ignoring the political purposes of the Festival.

A copy of Festival, the IPC's monthly newsletter, shows almost without exception, articles carrying endorsement of the Festival by celebrities along with stories of the great opportunities of cultural enrichment in Vienna. The only political note was contained in an editorial denying Communist control and again repeating the theme of peace and friendship.

Many student organizations here and abroad, such as the U. S. National Student Association, have seen through these facts, and are supporting a policy of non-participation.

However, some students may wish to attend on an individual basis. If they do attend, it is important that they have a thorough knowledge of the Festival and of the topics which are likely to be discussed. The effectiveness of such participation was shown when several read portions of the United Nations report on Hungary to large segments of Russian student and workers in 1957 at Moscow. This may have been one of the reasons this festival will be held outside the Iron Curtain.

Do You Think for Yourself? (TAKE THIS FAST QUIZ AND FIND OUT!*)

1. Which would you consider more essential to a happy marriage: (A) the mates' similarity in ages and backgrounds, or (B) their intelligence and adaptability?

A ☐ B ☐

2. Which of these two famous men would you most prefer to be like: (A) King Midas, or (B) Ludwig van Beethoven?

A ☐ B ☐

3. If neither party's candidate in an election was satisfactory to you, would you (A) not vote, or (B) vote for the "lesser of two evils"?

A ☐ B ☐

4. If your performance in a group effort was being unjustly criticized, would you (A) settle the score directly with your critic, or (B) ignore it and let the group decide its merits?

A ☐ B ☐

5. Do you believe that the meeting with your future mate is primarily a matter of (A) geography, or (B) fate?

A ☐ B ☐

6. If you were to come unexpectedly into a sizable sum of money, would you (A) bank or invest it and spend only the income, or (B) take a year off to travel around the world?

A ☐ B ☐

7. Do you think the saying "It never rains, but it pours" is (A) generally untrue, or (B) invariably true?
